19 itself to be an anti-imperialist organization
20 which views United States imperialism as 21 the main enemy of the people of the world.
22 The RSB favors violent actions to further
23 its cause and is moving closer in ideology
24 to the Revolutionary Union (RU), which has 25 significantly infiltrated the RSB and 26 plays a major role in the RSB policies,

On September 6, 1974, [REDACTED] an employee of the "New York Times," New York City, New York, furnished to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) a letter signed by [REDACTED] which had been sent to the "New York Times." The letter contained statements indicating that Paradise, an inmate at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution (MCI), Bridgewater, Massachusetts, was a member of the Weatherman underground, and contained statements that if Nelson Rockefeller, the Vice President Designate, did not step down within 55 days he would be killed, along with his family, due to what happened at Attica Prison in New York State. The letter also stated that whether or not Rockefeller stepped down bombs would explode in several police stations across the country, letter bombs would be sent to top officials of Government, and the lives of several Governors would be in danger. The letter also stated that there would be many kidnappings of high officials and if Rockefeller did not step down thousands of people would be killed in New York, Boston, Los Angeles and Berkeley, California. The letter concluded with the statement, "This is no joke, already bombs have been planted in Boston, New York and LA mainly police dept. courts and office buildings. I am writing this to try and save lives. I am locked up maybe that's why I don't know, but if Rockefeller doesn't step down within 55 days he will be killed along with his family."

The above information was telephonically furnished to representatives of the Secret Service in New York City. Notification of the family of Nelson Rockefeller will be handled by Secret Service, New York City.

On September 10, 1974 [REDACTED] was interviewed at the MCI, Bridgewater, Massachusetts, by a Special Agent of the FBI. The results of that interview are set forth as follows:

[redacted] inmate, Massachusetts Correctional Institution (MCI), Bridgewater, Massachusetts, was furnished a form entitled "Interrogation; Advice of Rights," which he read, stated he understood, and signed. [redacted] was advised by SA [redacted] of the intent to discuss the letter written by [redacted] to [redacted] a reporter with the "New York Times," New York, New York, in which threats were made relating to NELSON ROCKEFELLER and Mr. ROCKEFELLER's family.

[redacted] advised that the letter referred to above was written by him. He stated that the contents, for the most part, consisted of comments made in an underground newspaper article furnished to him by a fellow inmate. He was unable to name the underground periodical from which the article was taken and refused to identify the inmate who furnished this article.

[redacted] stated that he is in agreement with the contents of the article and of the contents of the letter written by him and referred to above. He stated that although he is locked up and unable to carry out the acts described in this letter he is certain that these acts will be carried out by individuals on the "outside." He stated that the individual who furnished the above article to him was a black male who was released approximately two weeks ago from the Billerica House of Correction, Billerica, Massachusetts. Again he declined to identify this individual. He did state, however, that this individual stated to him that he intends to carry out the threats set out in [redacted] letter with the aid of the Black Liberation Army (BLA).

[redacted] stated that inasmuch as he believes letters written by him are censored by prison officials he uses the name [redacted] an inmate also incarcerated at Bridgewater. He stated that [redacted] mail is not censored and that [redacted] has agreed to the use of his name for this purpose by [redacted]

[REDACTED] indicated that he does not have any knowledge regarding the manufacture of bombs of any description and that he does not know anyone specifically who does have this type of knowledge. He stated that his reason for wanting ROCKEFELLER killed is based on a personal dislike as well as ROCKEFELLER's action in relation to the prison uprising at Attica, New York. He stated that he also feels great animosity towards Governor FRANCIS SARGENT of Massachusetts in view of Governor SARGENT's firing of the Corrections Commissioner, JOHN BOONE. He stated that if he was free and had the opportunity he would definitely attempt to kill both NELSON ROCKEFELLER and FRANCIS SARGENT.

Re: Future Status of the
Coordinator of Inter-
American Affairs.

Dear Sir:

On Thursday, March 9, 1944, during the regular weekly conference attended by the Ambassador and the Officers of the Embassy, Ambassador THURSTON advised that a dispatch had been received from the State Department setting forth the text of certain letters received from NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER, the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs and the Department of State.

ROCKEFELLER, in his letters to the State Department, dated January 4, January 7 and January 28, 1944 advises that in his opinion, it is advisable for the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs to be continued during the postwar period and he states further in his letters, the reasons for his belief.

In his letter dated January 4, 1944, ROCKEFELLER states as follows:

"It is, therefore, our recommendation that consideration be given by the Department of State and this Office to making the Coordination Committee structure permanent with funds to be provided by this Government and to define the extent of its activities as determined by the requirements of the post-war period in the execution of the Inter-American Program of the United States Government."

In a letter dated January 22, 1944, EDWARD R. STETTINUS, JR., the Assistant Secretary of State, wrote as follows:

RECORDED 3 1944 62-61140-64
"From the foregoing, I think it is clear that the Department does not believe that the Coordinating Committees as such should be continued in the post-war period. It is definitely not believed desirable to encourage at this time the participation of Coordination Committees in the economic development program in which your office as well as other branches of the Government are directly interested."

Re: Future Status of the
Coordinator of Inter-
American Affairs.

After reading extracts from these letters and explaining the general content, the Ambassador stated that his opinion was the same as that of STETTINIUS, but that care should, of course, be given to tapering off the program of the Coordinator's Office in such a way to avoid giving any impression that the United States was suddenly drawing from South America after having used the countries during wartime.

The Ambassador then requested the opinion of each Officer attending the meeting, including the writer, what his opinion was regarding the matter and all of the Officers attached to the Embassy agreed with the Ambassador. The writer, when asked for his opinion, stated that he had never given any consideration to the matter and had not formed an opinion, but did believe that the Government should more closely coordinate its activities in South America with a view of making its program more effective and avoiding needless expenditures.

Very truly yours,

J. CORDES DELWORTH

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : LADD

FROM : H. FITCH

SUBJECT: OFFICE OF COORDINATOR OF INTER-AMERICAN AFFAIRS AND BUREAU

[redacted] of Inter-American Affairs and a close personal friend of the writer, has, from time to time during the past several months, mentioned briefly the work Bureau representatives are performing in the SIS field. From [redacted] comments, it has been quite obvious that the Coordinator's Office regards the Bureau highly. On one or two occasions [redacted] expressed the opinion that State Department representatives in Latin and South America have not handled inter-American affairs with much thought, care or consideration, and he commented upon the value of reports on SIS matters that the Bureau has forwarded to the Coordinator's Office.

Very recently [redacted] indicated that the activities of representatives from the C.O.I.A.A. in Latin and South America would be curtailed in the early part of 1945 and he expressed the hope that the Bureau would see fit to increase its interest and coverage in the SIS field. He inferred that Mr. Nelson Rockefeller held similar views on this matter and I therefore suggested that it would probably be a good idea for Mr. Nelson Rockefeller to discuss this matter with the Director. [redacted] thought this a good suggestion and stated he would take it up with Mr. Rockefeller with a view to arranging a luncheon between the Director and Mr. Rockefeller to facilitate at least a preliminary discussion of this topic.

During the past week end [redacted] advised that he had mentioned this matter to Mr. Rockefeller who stated that he would personally contact the Director in the near future to go into a discussion of this topic.

MEMORANDUM

Re: COMMUNIST NEWSPAPER ATTACK ON
NELSON ROCKEFELLER and AVRA HARRIS

The official Communist organ, "El Espectador" of Bogota, Colombia, on June 12, 1945, carried a bitter attack, dated June 12 at Washington, D. C. on NELSON ROCKEFELLER, on the grounds that he was responsible for the admission of Argentina to the United Nations Organization contrary to the policy of COMINT-USA. The article stated that a general house cleaning of the Department of State is being urged in order that those individuals responsible for the "discredited policy toward Argentina" may be eliminated.

AVRA HARRIS was attacked on the same grounds as NELSON ROCKEFELLER.

The article continued that ROCKEFELLER had pleaded for funds before an Appropriation Committee in order that Communism might be defeated in South America.

The article concluded that Secretary STETTINUS had refused MILOTOV's request that time be given to consider the admission of Argentina and then later had to admit that the United States is not in agreement with any aspects of the Argentine regime.

Federal Bureau of Investigation
United States Department of Justice
San Francisco, California
May 7, 1945

O. Gold
Dear Mr. Hoover:

The developments in the San Francisco Conference have been relatively routine during the last thirty-six hours. According to AVRA WARREN, the current week will be a week of skirmishes, and if any big battles develop, they will grow out of this week's "skirmishes." NELSON ROCKEFELLER, AVRA WARREN, and BOB LYNCH have all confided in me that the State Department believes the Conference can be terminated within the next three weeks unless something very unforeseen develops.

The Dumbarton Oaks Agreement has been completely rewritten, and the Russians at the various sessions completely objected to three major points involved in the new agreement. NELSON ROCKEFELLER, working with the Latin-American Delegations, JIMMIE DUNN, working with the European Delegations, and the rest of the State Department bigwigs were attempting to plan a program of strategy so that the Russian objections would be completely snowed over. At twenty minutes to nine on Saturday night, May 5, MOLOTOV called Mr. STETTINIUS and wanted to see him immediately. STETTINIUS was completely surprised by the call but agreed to see MOLOTOV. Mr. STETTINIUS made an effort immediately to get in touch with some of his top-flight aides but everyone was out for the evening and the only person on hand was BOB LYNCH. The State Department interpreters could not be reached, but BOB LYNCH called us and fortunately, our Russian translator was at the San Francisco Office, so that we had him in Mr. STETTINIUS' apartment before MOLOTOV arrived. MOLOTOV, however, brought one of the official Conference interpreters with him and although our interpreter was not used, Mr. STETTINIUS personally thanked the interpreter for being available and has expressed his appreciation to the Bureau for making him available. MOLOTOV told Mr. STETTINIUS that all of the objections which he had been offering in behalf of the Soviet to the various programs, including the new writing of the Dumbarton Oaks Agreement, had been offered in absolute good faith and in the sincere belief that the objections would make the program more workable. MOLOTOV stated that the Soviet sincerely hoped that the entire world security organization would work and work effectively, and that he, MOLOTOV, was most appreciative of the fine manner in which Mr. STETTINIUS had treated him in the way in which the Russian views had been presented, and in the way in which the Russians had been treated in the United States. He then stated that the Russians were, through him, officially presenting their three major objections to the revised Dumbarton Oaks and that he, MOLOTOV was prepared at that time to express the complete agreement of the Russians to the new plan. MOLOTOV then stated that he wanted publicly to commend Mr. STETTINIUS in behalf of the Russian government, and an agreement was made whereby MOLOTOV is going to hold a press conference in which he is going to commend Mr. STETTINIUS, the State Department, President Truman, etc. Mr. STETTINIUS contemplates leaving San Francisco in the next few days for the purpose of flying to Washington and making a personal report to Mr. Truman on the Conference to date. We are confidentially advised that as a result of this flight to Washington and the fact that the Russians appear to be getting in line, it is hoped that Mr. STETTINIUS will obtain some very favorable publicity. The present timing of Mr. STETTINIUS' flight to Washington is to follow rather closely upon the formal announcement of MOLOTOV's return which, incidentally, is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday.

In the meanwhile, ROCKEFELLER and some of the others in the State Department, in an effort to overcome the Russian objection to the revised Dumbarton Oaks Plan, had made various commitments to other nations on collateral matters in order to line up these nations on the Dumbarton Oaks Plan. As a result, a number of commitments have been made which were not entirely in accord with the American viewpoint on individual subjects but which were made solely for the purpose of defeating the Russians on the Dumbarton Oaks objections. Most of these collateral agreements were made with the Latin-Americans, and NELSON ROCKEFELLER and AVRA WARREN are now trying to renig on the commitments previously made and which are now considered unnecessary.

You have been advised of the presence in San Francisco of a [redacted] who is the unofficial observer of four of the Mid-Western Archbishops. He is a personable man and I arranged yesterday to have a small breakfast session with BOB LYNCH, his brother who, incidentally, works for [redacted] in New York, and [redacted] because [redacted] wanted to meet them. After some general discussion, [redacted] stated that the hierarchy of the Catholic Church were very much concerned over the fact that there is no Catholic representation on the American delegation to the Conference. LYNCH was obviously startled at this observation, and incidentally, when I mentioned it to AVRA WARREN and NELSON ROCKEFELLER last night, they likewise were rather stunned at this fact. The archbishops point out that none of the official delegates are Catholics, that none of the advisers to the delegation are Catholics, that none of the consultants are Catholics, that the entire group of some one hundred fifty officials, advisers and consultants is in the [redacted] official organization in the capacity of a [redacted]

the question of the World Court, is the only Catholic [redacted] took a rather practical approach to this situation and pointed out that he thought fundamentally it was a matter of bad politics to have no representation from a vote group representing some thirty million people, but that the clergy felt that this was a deliberate intention to ignore the Catholic people. LYNCH, of course, immediately retaliated with the statement that it was a complete oversight, and I think, frankly, that this is one aspect of the practical politics in the Conference which has been completely overlooked by everyone. As a matter of fact, LYNCH went to some length to impress upon [redacted] the fact that the Secretary is very receptive to any suggestions from the Catholic clergy, and stated that the Jewish lobbying interests, the Anti-Defamation League, the American Jewish Congress, and a variety of other Jewish organizations are lobbying on a twenty-four hour a day basis to the point where they are "in everybody's hair" all of the time." I think personally that, theoretically at least, the American representation to a conference of this kind should be upon a substantive basis without reference to religious beliefs, creed, or political background, but it does seem as a matter of practical politics, that somebody would have been a little more alert in a thing of this kind, at least to the point of protecting the Administration from this type of criticism.

General EMBICK is apparently getting out of line insofar as some of the consultants of the State Department are concerned upon the matter of Pacific bases. NELSON ROCKEFELLER told AVRA WARREN last night that EMBICK had threatened to "take off his uniform and appeal to the American people" in an effort to carry home his points about the necessity for a frontier against the Asiatic mainland. It is too bad that General EMBICK is as aged and sickly as he is because his observations upon the need for proper frontiers and a sufficient military organization to guarantee peace are, I think, very, very sound.

[redacted] is assigned to the International Court group as an adviser but apparently has developed a rather deep academic interest in the Polish question. He has a theory that the best way to achieve the ultimate objective of a free and independent Poland is to allow the Russians to ostensibly win the current argument and maintain their domination over Poland. He contends that this will result ultimately in the complete breakdown of relationships between the Russians and the Poles in the same manner that the British have failed through several hundred years of effort to subject the Irish to their official will. [redacted] that the Poles, like the Irish, will fight for their independence and will ultimately [redacted] that as a matter of strategy, it [redacted]

...on Mr. Tamm ...
... to give in to the Russians at the present time and
... take care of itself along the parallel of the English Irish relationship. I think this is decidedly prosaic fundamentally because I believe that the Russians will, if necessary, completely wipe out the Polish people in order to maintain the Curzon Line. In addition, I recognize the fact that the romantic blood of my dashing Irish ancestors coursing (or straggling) through my veins probably makes my viewpoint upon this suggestion not altogether an impersonal one.
Of course, our relationships with BILL STEPHENSON and associated representatives of the British Government has not contributed to my Irish disdain for things British.

... returned from his fishing expedition last evening with considerable sunburn and a tale of piscatorial accomplishment which definitely removes him from the amateur status as a verbal fisherman.

With best wishes and kind regards,

Sincerely,

Bill Tamm

[redacted] stated that he may have signed a letter authorizing the functions and the files of the Spanish Speaking Peoples Section to be transferred to the Institute of Ethnic Affairs in January of 1946 but in fact could neither recall doing so or recall anything whatsoever involving the Institute of Ethnic Affairs, including its founding, organization or purpose.

[redacted] advised that in the Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs classified documents from various agencies, including the FBI, were received but inasmuch as the Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs was a reporting organization, he always preferred that classified material be handled apart from the regular routine matters so that the possibility of misusing this information would be eliminated.

[redacted] said that he could not recall the actual disposition of the FBI reports received by the agency while he was acting director but he said that the responsibility for the security of such documents would have been placed with [redacted] who was designated as security officer and who may possibly have been operating as such in January, 1946. [redacted] is presently engaged with the public relations firm of Coates and McCormick in Washington, D. C.

[redacted] also recalled that one [redacted] was involved for a period of time in some projects concerning the disposition of files of the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs and he may possibly have been the person who handled the transferral of files from the Spanish Speaking Peoples Section to the Institute of Ethnic Affairs.

[redacted] March 20, 1953 [redacted] advised that he had been an administrative counsel with the Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, up until September 1946, when he returned to New York.

work with private industry; however, at the request of Mr. NELSON ROCKEFELLER, [redacted] subsequently returned to Washington, D. C. in January, 1945 in the capacity of general counsel with the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

He remained in that capacity until September, 1945 when he was succeeded by [redacted] as administrative counsel, [redacted] stated that he received FBI reports and reviewed them for any information he believed may be pertinent to the various projects handled by the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs or for any information which he believed may have been of interest to NELSON ROCKEFELLER as coordinator or members of the executive staff. Complete control was exercised over these documents at all times and they were kept in a locked room separate from the general files.

[redacted] advised that he did not recall [redacted] or [redacted] while he was administrative counsel and only had a vague recollection of her when he returned to the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs as general counsel.

He stated that as a matter of procedure, unless specifically instructed otherwise by [redacted] he would never have forwarded any FBI reports or other classified documents to [redacted] In the absence of any recollection of such instructions by [redacted] [redacted] stated that he categorically denied forwarding any FBI files or reports to [redacted]

[redacted] stated that he was unable to recall what disposition was made of classified materials after he left the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs as administrative counsel in September, 1945. He said [redacted] did recall that in September, 1945, about the time he left Washington, the [redacted] of Inter-American Affairs and all files pertaining to [redacted] were [redacted] by [redacted]

CONFIDENTIAL - NOT TO BE DISCLOSED

He felt that normally, [redacted] administrative counsel for the State Department would necessarily have handled this transfer. WASH. D.C.

[redacted] 30 Rockefeller Plaza, advised that he was formerly employed as chief administrative officer at the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs, but could not recall what disposition was made of FBI reports and could not recall the transferral of files and functions of the Spanish Speaking Peoples Section to the Institute of Ethnic Affairs.

[redacted] advised that she was formerly employed by the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs, from September, 1941 until January, 1944 as administrative assistant. During the latter part of her employment, she was engaged as secretary to [redacted]

Beginning in approximately 1943 when FBI reports were forwarded to that office, she would receive them for [redacted] and insure that they came to [redacted] attention. These reports were kept separate from the general files and retained in locked cabinets [redacted] in use. As secretary to [redacted] would carry out his instructions regarding the routing and filing of these reports.

[redacted] stated that she neither recalled the name of [redacted] or [redacted] therefore would conclude that she, [redacted] the Office of Coordinator, Institute of Inter-American Affairs, [redacted] any files to [redacted]

SUBJECT: ~~PASSES~~ TO SAN FRANCISCO PEACE CONFERENCE

Mr. Tracy advised that the blue passes issued by the Bureau were known as delegate or advisor's passes for admission to the Opera House to the various meetings there. In order to secure a seat at the plenary session a press pass or a regular seat ticket in addition to the blue pass was required, but to the various delegations closed meetings this blue pass was the identification and admitted the holder to meetings which were closed to the press.

Mr. Tracy advised that such passes were issued to 73 Bureau personnel, that 3 credential cards were issued by Mr. Tamm as follows:

- (1) [REDACTED], International News Service.
- (2) Judge Edward Murphy, Judge of the Superior Court, San Francisco
- (3) Mrs. Edward Murphy
- (4) [REDACTED] Secretary to Archbishop Stritch, and representing Catholic Bishops at the Conference. b7c
- (5) [REDACTED] Motion Picture representative.
- (6) [REDACTED] Motion Picture representative from Los Angeles.
- (7) [REDACTED] Motion Picture representative from New York City.
- (8) [REDACTED] Calaveras Cement Company and Chairman of the Democratic Committee for the State of California.

Mr. Tamm stated that in addition to these, he issued the following passes all of which he subsequently destroyed:

Nelson Rockefeller - one pass.

[REDACTED], two passes were issued for friends of [REDACTED] in fictitious names.

[REDACTED], a friend of Avra. Warren, from Buenos Aires, one pass issued in his name. b7c

Two passes issued in fictitious names and used by Mr. Tamm to take various individuals into the conference as explained in the attached memorandum dictated by Mr. Tamm.

adherent

I think it is basically undesirable to issue passes to anyone not in actual service of the Bureau in situations such as this. For a moment inevitably arises as it did in this case. II.

UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION

Information has been received that John B. Hutson, Assistant Secretary General of the United Nations, resigned on January 9, 1947, as head of the Administrative and Financial Services of the Secretariat at the request of Trygve Lie, Secretary General. He did so because the Russian Delegation and their satellite countries have had no use for Hutson since he greeted Lieutenant General Tadeusz Komorowski, better known as General Bor, when the latter, an anti-Communist and leader of the Polish Underground, came to New York in May, 1946, and because Lie closely follows the wishes of the Russians.

Advice has also been received that the Russians are very happy about the selection of New York City as the home of the United Nations. Every Monday morning Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City and Mr. Nelson Rockefeller have breakfast together, at which time they discuss plans for erecting the United Nations buildings in New York City. In the event Mr. Rockefeller is unable to attend these conferences, one of his brothers or his father, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. attends.

Advice was received that [REDACTED], who was formerly connected with the United States Department of State, is presently employed in the Social Department of the Refugee Division of the United Nations at a salary of $7500 per year plus per diem. [REDACTED] allegedly obtained this position through personal friendship with [REDACTED] who is Assistant Secretary General in Charge of Social Affairs. [REDACTED] is reported to be a person having an extreme Leftist philosophy. b7c

The Yugoslav delegation is allegedly not held in very high regard by the other member countries of the United Nations. They are difficult to get along with and their attitude at times has been anything but cooperative. It was reported that [REDACTED] member of the Yugoslav delegation, was a former Nazi and a murderer and now a known Communist. He is alleged to have switched to Communism when the Nazis were defeated. b7c

URGENT

In a new book published by former intelligence agent Frank Capell of Box #3, The Herald of Freedom, Zarephath, New Jersey, 08890, Secretary of State Dr. Henry A. Kissinger has been unmasked as a SOVIET AGENT...

D.C.
Vice-President Nelson A. Rockefeller has been unmasked as an active COMMUNIST by none other than General Walter Bedell Smith while he headed the Central Intelligence Agency. For proof of this read page #367 of the book "O.S.S. - The Secret History of America's First Intelligence Agency", published by University of California press at Berkeley, California and written by R. Harris Smith, former research analyst of the C.I.A.

Need we say more???

This Communist Manifesto, promulgated in the '50s is still in effect; their policy of exterminating Americans over age 30 has not changed.

Will you and your family survive the mass extermination planned for you by the Communists?? Think again!!!

Will you tolerate dedicated Communists in our Executive Branch of the United States government?

NOTE: Dr. Henry A. Kissinger who is our Secretary of State owes his allegiance to his masters in the KREMLIN..All his political activities are dictated by the monsters in MOSCOW...
...This traitor has mesmerized our Commander in Chief...
Dr. Kissinger poses a great danger to the FREE world and to the survival of the United States as a nation.

The Committee for the removal of Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, an unmasked Soviet agent..

...of traitor!!!

Published in the Worker News-Herald, April 16, 1954

(An editorial by J. C. Phillips)

N.S.A.

U.S.A.

It was the Editor's privilege twice to hear Matt Cvetic, who was a "Communist" for the F. B. I., tell his story and discuss the Communist Conspiracy.

REDS PLOT DEATH OF AMERICANS OVER 30

The American people owe a great deal to this man. He sacrificed the love and respect of his immediate family and his friends who for over a period of nine years believed him to be a traitor to his country. His mother died with a broken heart firmly convinced that he was a Communist. His sons disowned him and his father tried to get him to change his name. His wife left him.

There are a few things that Mr. Cvetic said that all Americans should hear, and should remember, even though they may not follow his entire story.

One-third of the population of the United States would be slaughtered, once the Communists took over. Both men and women over 30 would be liquidated with the exception of a few who might prove useful to the conspiracy. This revolutionary criminal thing would not take the time to re-educate older people. They would kill them!

This is one startling revelation that the editor received in personal contact with this great man. Mr. Cvetic also said that as a member of the American Polit-Bureau, where he was believed to be one of the so-called party men, they often discussed how Communists, would themselves, be liquidated. The Polit-Bureau took this cold and calculated view: "Since their own government couldn't trust them, neither could we."

Mr. Cvetic told the editor how these native born American Communists talked among themselves. They referred to Russia as their motherland. Joseph Stalin was their leader. They called him Comrade Stalin. They spoke of "their glorious red army." When talking about American soldiers, they referred to them as "fascist butchers." The government of the United States was "imperialistic, or fascist or war mongering," and a lot of things that Mr. Cvetic couldn't repeat in mixed company.

He believes that the solution to the problem lies in the proper education of the American people, particularly the youth. He says academic freedom is not involved. What is involved is a criminal conspiracy.

(Those who are sincerely interested in academic freedom ought to have "certain professors" explain why they do not teach about the twenty million slaves in Russian concentration camps, about the mass murder of Russian farmers, about the cruel working conditions imposed upon the Russian people, about the impromptu shooting, without trial, of people who offend the Soviet State, and all of the other ugly things about Communism, instead of a beautiful theory not supported by the existing facts.)

He cannot understand red-blooded American who would hesitate to pledge their loyalty to their country. He was talking about professors who objected to signing any loyalty oath. Most of these "objecting" Professors who pled academic freedom, would be the first to die, to be liquidated, come the revolution.

We have here a great man, a man who has served his country well.

Because of his experience as an under-cover agent for the F.B.I., he knows the Communist conspiracy from the inside out and he is telling his story direct to the American people.

We owe Matt Cvetic a debt of gratitude.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

[REDACTED]

You will recall that we talked a day or two ago about the unfavorable editorial in the Washington Post relating to Mr. ELLISON, STETTINIUS and his associates in the State Department. On the day following the editorial, Mr. STETTINIUS encountered EUGENE MEYER, publisher of the Washington Post, in the Pacific Union Club and virtually shouted at MEYER something to the effect that, "What are you trying to do, destroy me?" followed by some rather caustic descriptive data relating to the Washington Post. MEYER declined to comment on the matter, advising STETTINIUS that he would prefer to talk to him when he, Mr. STETTINIUS, was more calm. As an interesting sidelight upon this story, [REDACTED] last evening visited with his friend, [REDACTED] reporter for the Washington Post, and with [REDACTED] likewise a reporter for the Washington Post.

[REDACTED] editorial writer for the Washington Post, have breakfast each morning with Mr. MEYER. Mr. MEYER did not know of the editorial written by ELLISON until after its publication. He therefore knew nothing of the criticism of Mr. STETTINIUS prior to its publication. [REDACTED] further stated that as a matter of policy, Mr. MEYER has never interfered in the operation of the Washington Post; he has never dictated policy nor has he requested any favors for or against his personal friends. They further stated that Mr. MEYER did advise Mr. ELLISON not to refer to Mr. STETTINIUS by name in a critical manner in editorials for the balance of the Conference inasmuch as he, Mr. MEYER, does not wish to be put in the position of criticizing Mr. STETTINIUS. Mr. MEYER has said nothing to Messrs. [REDACTED] however, with reference to the use of Mr. STETTINIUS' name in their straight-news reporting. They also commented that Mr. STETTINIUS' public

EX 39 62-77787-

Mr. Hoover from Mr. Tamm

attack on Mr. MEYER undoubtedly insures that Mr. STETTINIUS is through as Secretary of State. In addition, they were critical of Mr. STETTINIUS' personal ability; they considered him inept, too much on the defensive, too argumentative with the press, and that he dodges too many questions. Another comment made by them was to the effect that Mr. STETTINIUS has been helped in his failure to measure up by the so-called career men in the Department of State.

I saw [redacted] for a few minutes this morning and he indicated that he had a brief letter from [redacted] in which [redacted] indicated that the world-wide intelligence plan was going to reach a "happy conclusion." [redacted] was, of course, quite gleeful about the word. b7c

There has been a great deal of dissatisfaction expressed by various press representatives concerning the "gag" placed on the members of the American delegation. American press representatives feel that the British are obtaining a constant flow of good news from British representatives, the French press is obtaining information from the French delegation, etc., but the American press alleges that they are receiving nothing. It now develops that there has been quite a conflict between the so-called technical advisers, who are the career State Department men, and the members of the American delegation like VANDENBERG, CONNALLY, STASSEN, etc. The technical advisers claim, historically, that President Wilson's failure in his attempts to effect the favorable peace treaty, the League of Nations, etc., was due to the fact that Wilson publicized his hopes, his plans, and his program, thereby allowing all of those opposed to the program to know just what he contemplated and to so thoroughly shoot at it as to destroy it. They contend, therefore, that the best strategy for the American program in the present war was to keep the program as secret as possible so that its opponents could not destroy it. Of course, the delegates, particularly CONNALLY, VANDENBERG, and STASSEN, are anxious to talk to the press about the whole program, but up until last night, the technical consultants had prevailed. Apparently, a full-fledged row broke out last night and it resulted in STETTINIUS, apparently due to the bad press which he has been getting, ruling in favor of the delegates being authorized to talk to the press on the general matters of policy and procedure involved. Mr. STETTINIUS hopes that this program will satisfy the American press representatives and take the pressure and criticism away from Mr. STETTINIUS. The first press conference was held at eleven o'clock this morning, and although the press generally thought that Mr. STETTINIUS was to hold the conference, Mr. STETTINIUS did not appear but the conference was held by STASSEN. Incidentally, STASSEN is very adroit in his press relations,

Mr. Hoover from Mr. Tamm

and various newspapermen, including [REDACTED]'s friends, named above, are quite vociferous in their admiration for STASSEN, seeing in him real presidential possibilities. b7c

The joint Congressional committee investigating the expenditures of the Conference, with Senator EATY McCARREN as the Chairman, and including [REDACTED] and [REDACTED], are due to arrive here on Tuesday next. Another senatorial committee, apparently inquiring into something, is due to arrive today or tomorrow. The Committee consists of four senators. b7c

With best wishes and kind regards,

Sincerely,

E. Tamm

MEMORANDUM

Although the Latin-American countries are ostensibly presenting a united front at the San Francisco Conference, the attitude of the Brazilian delegation, both officially and personally, has been an uncooperative and hostile one. The chief of the Brazilian delegation, PEDRO VELLOSO, Minister of State for Foreign Relations, and the vice-chairman, CARLOS MARTINS, were both accompanied to San Francisco by their wives. The wives have complained bitterly to the State Department representatives over the fact that they have not been properly treated, properly entertained, or proper consideration shown to them. In addition, VELLOSO and MARTINS have expressed great bitterness towards the United States Department of State because Portuguese, the official language of Brazil, has not been made an official language of the Conference. In addition, VELLOSO and MARTINS have complained almost daily about many picayune grievances, and the wives of both of these men have been vehement in their denunciation of the Conference and the treatment afforded the Brazilians generally.

In an effort to appease this feeling, Secretary of State STETTINIUS entertained specifically for the VELLOSOs and the MARTINS, and Assistant Secretary of State NELSON ROCKEFELLER attempted to appease these representatives. No reconciliation has, however, been effected and MARTINS has indicated that neither he nor his country should be considered further as friendly to the United States. It is reported that the only reason that the Brazilian delegation has not withdrawn from the Conference is that there is "no place for them to go if they withdraw."

It is reported that at least one member of the Brazilian delegation has expressed dissatisfaction at the extension of an invitation to the Argentine to participate in the Conference, and has caustically criticized the fact that a so-called minor matter of this kind was allowed to appear in such a prominent place on the agenda of the Conference.

MEMORANDUM

It is reported that there is some uneasiness within the State Department concerning the disposition of moneys from the President's Confidential Fund. It is stated that for the past two years, a total of $16,000,000 has been removed from the President's Fund for Jewish Relief. Last year, Mr. MORGENTHAU, Secretary of the Treasury, was anxious to have such relief extended but did not want to sponsor the relief or legislation for funds, and accordingly, arranged for the State Department to have a total of $8,000,000 set aside from the Presidential Confidential Fund for Jewish Relief. An agreement was reportedly made with Great Britain that both Great Britain and the United States would each put up $4,000,000 for the Jewish Relief, but the $4,000,000 contribution of Great Britain was taken from the Presidential Fund, loaned to Great Britain which, in turn, placed it up with a similar $4,000,000 withdrawal made in the name of the United States.

Within the State Department the feeling was expressed that funds of this kind should be appropriated by Congress, and an effort was made to induce the State Department to go before Congress and ask for funds for this purpose. This proposal was rejected, however, and again this year, a total of $8,000,000, representing a $4,000,000 contribution on behalf of the United States and a $4,000,000 contribution on behalf of Great Britain, was removed from the President's Confidential Fund for Jewish relief.

The source of this information has heretofore been found reliable, but it has been obviously impossible to make any check to determine the accuracy of these particular statements.

We had a good break with reference to our intelligence information last night, and I hope that it will crystallize the matter where some definite and effective channel for Communist and other information will be established. I have followed the practice of going over with [REDACTED] all intelligence data in addition to the usual South American material. There are four or five items which he said were very valuable and that he thought should be brought to Mr. [REDACTED]'s personal attention. I have told [REDACTED] in confidence that I had been trying for several days to establish some satisfactory contact for the utilization of this type of material and had not succeeded up until this time (ECB LYCH refuses to handle anything that he describes as "paper work" or "policy matters," saying that he is solely an administrative man). [REDACTED] stated that he would arrange immediately to see that all of this material was brought to Mr. [REDACTED]'s attention, preferably by [REDACTED]. If this works out, it will be fine, until [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are again at [REDACTED] points, and then, we will have to develop another contact.

MEMORANDUM

Terrific cross currents are at work within the American group attending the San Francisco Conference. The personal situation between Mr. STETTINIUS and NELSON ROCKEFELLER was reported on April 24 and 25, 1945, as being "explosive," and it was anticipated that within a few days there would be a complete "blow-up" between these two. Mr. ROCKEFELLER had made tentative plans to return to Washington immediately in the event of an open break with Mr. STETTINIUS although he was counseled not to withdraw from the Conference because of the possibility of unfavorable publicity. The feeling between Mr. STETTINIUS and Mr. ROCKEFELLER has reached rather high stages on previous occasions but has subsided without an open break. The feeling between Mr. STETTINIUS and Mr. ROCKEFELLER is being fanned by a variety of interests within the State Department in which Mr. ARCHIBALD MacLEISH is the moving figure. Mr. MacLEISH is very bitter toward Mr. ROCKEFELLER personally and is antagonistic to ROCKEFELLER's concepts of good government, inter-American relationships, and international relationships. Mr. MacLEISH is not held in the highest regard by Mr. STETTINIUS. Another clique within the State Department is headed by LEO PASVOLSKY, supported by ABE FOMERIS and THUSSIG. A third clique is composed of ALGER HISS, J. C. MOSS, and EDWARD HITCHARD, close associate of Judge VINSON. HITCHARD is, in turn, very close to Justice FRANKFURTER and is reported to be receiving instructions and suggestions from FRANKFURTER, which he is relaying to ALGER HISS. The feeling between the various groups within the State Department is so strong that HISS, who was formerly close to LOCKWOOD of NELSON ROCKEFELLER's staff, has recently become very suspicious of LOCKWOOD and will not confide in him for fear that the information will go to NELSON ROCKEFELLER. Assistant Secretary of State DUNN is attempting to stay within the good graces of the various conflicting groups and avoid taking a stand which will associate him with or against any of these groups.

Initially, the feeling between Mr. STETTINIUS and NELSON ROCKEFELLER grew out of the fact that at the Mexico City Conference, Mr. ROCKEFELLER made certain commitments in which he was not supported by Mr. STETTINIUS. On April 25, the viewpoints of Mr. STETTINIUS and NELSON ROCKEFELLER were widely divergent and an early open breach was anticipated. Subsequently, at the first session of the Steering Committee, Mr. STETTINIUS was completely and entirely out-manuevered by the other delegations. The inadequateness of the American participation in the Steering Committee meeting was stated to be due to the entirely unprepared manner in which Mr. STEPHENS went into the Conference. In addition, PETER FRASER, Prime Minister of New Zealand, and FRANCIS FORDE, Deputy Prime Minister of Australia, opposed the United States in the American position on questions at issue. The position of these two countries was a complete surprise to the Americans and the support by ANTHONY EDEN of FRASER and FORDE completely disrupted the American program. As a result, the Americans were completely out-voted and out-maneuvered, and career sources in the State Department state that the Americans took the worst beating in the initial meeting of the Steering Committee that the Government has ever taken at any international conference. Mr. STEPHENS was completely chagrined by his defeat which was predicated, as indicated, upon totally and entirely inadequate preparation, a complete lack of knowledge of parliamentary procedure, a lack of any system for indicating to representatives of countries who would support the United States the position which should be taken on a specific matter, and other basic elements of disorganization. Mr. STEPHENS solicited the assistance of HENRY WALLACE and after long, nocturnal conferences, a program was worked out for parliamentary advice and direction of Mr. STEPHENS by Senators COWLEY of Texas and LUDWIG of Michigan. The system of signals was established and the Latin-American group lined up behind the leadership of WALLACE, Foreign Minister of Mexico, with the result that the meeting of the Steering Committee on April 27 resulted in several decisive defeats of the Russians and the reestablishment of the American prestige. These developments have, at least for the time being, completely alleviated the possibility of any break between Mr. STEPHENS and Mr. WALLACE.

April 28, 1945

April 22, 1945

MEMORANDUM

It is reliably reported that Senator Valdez, who has heretofore openly opposed the expenditure of funds, particularly through the office of the Coordinator of Information for the Betterment of Relations between the United States and the Latin-American Republics, is now of the opinion that these expenditures have justified themselves, and in the light of the present attitude of the Latin-Americans towards the United States, Senator Valdez personally commented to Mr. McClellan upon the fact that the support given by the Latin-Americans to the United States position in various conference matters at San Francisco justified the expenditure of every cent which has heretofore been spent for the improvement of the Pan-American relationship.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

Memorandum

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI

DATE: 4/25/66

FROM : SAC, NEW YORK (1-1224)

SUBJECT: CONFERENCE ON CRIME,
NEW YORK CITY
APRIL 21-22, 1966

Governor NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER opened and closed the captioned crime conference and spent considerable time on the podium answering questions after several panel sessions. The conference was divided into five sessions as follows:

1. Panel on Organized Crime - Chairman ELIOT H. LUMBARD.
2. Panel on Narcotics and Crime - Chairman LAWRENCE W. PIERCE, Commissioner, New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission.
3. A dinner presided over by Lieutenant Governor MALCOLM WILSON. The speakers were Justice CHARLES BREITEL, on "The Need for Study of the Administration of Criminal Justice," and JAMES VORENBERG, Executive Director, The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice, on "The Objectives of the President's Commission".
4. Panel on Alcoholism and Crime - Chairman DR. CHRISTOPHER F. TERRENCE, First Deputy Commissioner, New York State Department of Mental Hygiene.
5. Panel on Recidivism - Chairman RUSSELL G. OSWALD, New York State Board of Parole.

The conference was very well attended by the Sheriffs, District Attorneys, Chiefs of Police and various notables throughout the State who are interested in different phases of crime. I estimate there were between 200 and 350 people in attendance.

Of course, the session that held the most interest for the FBI was the Panel on Organized Crime. LUMBARD did not make any derogatory statements concerning the FBI. Actually, ALFRED SCOTTI, Chief Assistant District Attorney, New York County, in his opening remarks, as a member of the panel, commented that the only way to successfully fight organized crime is by use of legal wiretaps. After his comment, the remainder of the conference was given over to the pros and cons of wiretapping, keeping in mind that not everyone at the conference represented law enforcement. One representative of the NAACP seriously objected to the use of wiretapping. Another member of the conference challenged SCOTTI by picking up one of SCOTTI's remarks to the effect that he was responsible for sending many of the top leaders in the field of crime to jail. The question was asked if this were true, how is it that crime in the area is as prevalent as ever, if not more so at this time.

The remainder of the sessions, while not of direct interest to the FBI, did present some lively discussions. Judge CHARLES BREITEL, of the Appellate Division of the First Judicial Department, of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, gave an outstanding talk. VORENBERG, who followed him, was a very weak speaker by contrast. BREITEL did not refer to a single note and mentioned by name people who were with various panels throughout the day. VORENBERG read his speech and did not do too good a job on it at that. He stumbled over many phases of it. He gave the general impression that he was not too well grounded on the objectives of the President's Commission. It is quite obvious, however, that he is a close personal friend of ELIOT LUMBARD and that both of them worked together on some phases of law enforcement being covered by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice. One comment that VORENBERG made appeared to have significance. He diverted momentarily from his prepared text when he stated that the dissemination of information among law enforcement agencies is being studied quite intently by the President's Commission and it is hoped that some good ideas for improvement will be forthcoming.

It was particularly noteworthy that on the opening day of the conference, television and movie cameras were set up in abundance throughout the hall. Many of the talks were being recorded en toto by the newspapers. However, the news media gave very poor coverage to the Crime Conference. Very little newspaper space was given over to it and it was only mentioned in passing by one or two of the television and radio personalities. It was speculated by some that were present that while this was primarily a conference on law enforcement and it was agreed for the most part that it was a good conference, it was secondarily a political move on the part of Governor Rockefeller to reach law enforcement.

What is O.C.B.?

DALE O. SMITH, Brig. Gen. USAF,
Special Assistant to O.C.B. Executive Officer

Because its function—coordinating operations when the United States deals with national security matters—is so logical, the Operations Coordinating Board appears, after two years, to be a permanent fixture. No one questions the need of supplementing the planning work of the National Security Council with a system for coordinating the implementation of the policy thus developed.*

Nevertheless, the OCB is not well known—a rare occasion when an OCB staff man sees a gleam of understanding when he attempts to explain his job. This is understandable since a little more understanding, particularly within the Executive Branch, should contribute much to OCB work. Therefore, by way of explanation, let's start from the beginning to see how OCB came about.

When General Eisenhower gave a campaign speech in San Francisco on October 9, 1952, he spoke of the need for focussed national operations. He said we had to have a system for getting all elements of government to pull together toward clear national security objectives. He was referring, essentially, to the need for greater teamwork and cooperation in the Executive Branch of the government—a focussed and centralized attention on national security policies. As he said in the speech:

"Every significant act of government should be so timed and so directed at a principal target and so related to other governmental actions that it will produce the maximum effect. . . .

"It means that in carrying out a national policy, every department and every agency of government that can make a useful contribution will bring its full strength to bear under a coordinated program.

"This is how I would go about this business.

"First: We must adapt our foreign policy to a 'cold war' strategy that is unified and coherent.

"Second: In spirit and resolve we should see in this 'cold war' a chance to gain a victory without casualties, to win a contest that can quite literally save peace.

"Third: We must realize that as a nation, everything we say, everything we do, and everything we fail to say or do will have its impact in other lands. It will affect the minds and wills of men and women there.

*A handbook describing the OCB has recently been published for official use and may be obtained by writing the Executive Officer, 708 Jackson Place, Washington 25, D. C.

"Fourth: We must choose a man of exceptional qualifications to handle the national psychological effort. He should have the full confidence of, and direct access to, the Chief Executive. I have suggested in other talks that this function may be best worked out through a revitalized and reconstructed National Security Council."

Shortly after assuming office, the President nominated an ad hoc committee to survey the government's overseas information activity and to recommend an organizational structure which would coordinate the operations called for

Herbert Hoover, Jr.

Nelson Rockefeller

Theodore C. Strubert

by National Security policies. The "Jackson Committee" (William H. Jackson was chairman) recommended an independent agency status for overseas information activities (USIA), the abolition of the Psychological Strategy Board, and the forming of the Operations Coordinating Board.

Many people consider OCB to be the old PSB operating under another name, but this is erroneous. The OCB was given an entirely new charter with Executive Order 10483.

Although not a substitute for other channels of coordination, the essential purpose of OCB, as noted in the founding charter was to achieve coordination of all elements of national power—political, military, economic and psychological. The psychological aspect was still in the picture, but only in relationship to the impact of all overseas operations conducted by the U. S.

One important conclusion of the Jackson Committee was that psychological warfare was an integral aspect of every act of government and could not be separated out and considered in a vacuum. OCB was charged with keeping an eye on all operations in view of achieving a climate of opinion abroad in keeping with our national policies.

OCB Line-Up

OCB was born on September 2, 1953 by the publication of Executive Order 10483 signed by the President. Like all new organizations, signed to promote a new concept which is not too well known, or understood, OCB has had a difficult time. But it is making real progress.

OCB is, first of all, a board which meets every Wednesday in the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House.

Chairman of the Board is Under Secretary of State Herbert Hoover, Jr. Deputy Secretary of Defense Reuben B. Robertson, Jr. is another member, as are Special Assistant to the President Nelson A. Rockefeller, Director of Central Intelligence Allen W. Dulles and Director of the U. S. Information Agency Theodore C. Strebart.

Then there is Mr. John B. Hollister, Director of the new International Cooperation Administration—formerly FIA. Mr. Hollister replaced Mr. Harold E. Stassen on the Board.

The Board's staff work is directed by the Executive Officer of OCB, Mr. Elmer B. Staats. You might say that his relationship to OCB is analogous to Mr. Dillon Anderson's relationship to NSC. (Mr. Dillon Anderson replaced General Robert Cutler as Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs.) The Executive Officer of OCB sits with the Board but his function is to help keep the train on the track rather than to pull the cars.

WHAT IS OCB? (from page 27)

General Cui habitually sat with the Board to provide the close liaison between policy and operations, and Mr. Dillon Anderson is continuing with this custom.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrew N. Overby is a frequent participant as is Admiral Lewis Strauss or Admiral Paul F. Foster, his deputy, from AEC. Other agencies often represented at Board meetings are Budget and Commerce, depending on the subject under discussion.

Each one of the Board members has an assistant who devotes full time to OCB activities, and in some cases, the assistant has a small staff. A Board Assistant sits behind his principal at the OCB meeting, occupies office in his own department or agency, and is responsible for coordinating staff work in his agency on matters being coordinated through OCB channels.

The Board Assistant for State is ESQ Max W. Bishop.

For Defense, Mr. William H. Godel.

For CIA, Mr. Wayne Jackson.

For USIA, Mr. Frederick Bundy.

For ICA, Mr. John Tabler.

The Executive Officer has a deputy to back-stop him, ESQ Livingston Satterthwaite.

The NSC liaison with the OCB is handled by Mr. T. B. Koons at this level, and Bureau of the Budget liaison by Mr. George Schwarzwald.

Mr. Nelson Rockefeller's Board Assistant is Mr. John R. Kennedy.

The Board Assistants meet as a separate body each Friday under the chairmanship of Mr. Staats, the Executive Officer. They review all papers going to the OCB and prepare the OCB agenda.

The OCB Staff

The Executive Officer of OCB is authorized a small staff to help him with his work. When considering the volume of work and the magnitude of the problems, the word "small" is indeed an understatement. The entire staff numbers 55 people, only 22 of whom are at the professional level.

The OCB staff offices are at 708 Jackson Place, N.W. This is an ancient brick structure on the corner of Jackson Place and Pennsylvania Avenue. No doubt everyone in Washington has wondered who occupies this legacy of the past between Blair House and Lafayette Park, for it carries no name.

The OCB Staff organization is quite simple. Its very smallness makes unnecessary a highly structured system. The staff is divided into four groups: the Area group, the Special Projects Staff, the Media Programs Staff, and the Secretariat.

In the Area Group each man is responsible for keeping on top of all operations in a particular geographic area. Each reports directly to the Executive Officer on matters affecting his area.

The Special Projects Staff keeps in close liaison with the Intelligence community and prepares Information Briefs on projects concerning OCB for the assistance of working groups.

The Media Program Staff concerns itself with activities of world-wide communications media—radio and TV, motion pictures, education and cultural exchange, books and publications, and the like.

The fourth section of the OCB staff is secretarial. The mechanical problem of dealing with every department of government which is involved with national security is extremely complicated and must be handled very systematically or the work gets hopelessly snarled.

Members of the staff are drawn from every agency associated with OCB or are hired directly. None is considered as a representative of his home agency. Agency representation is handled at the Board and Board Assistant levels. The OCB staff provides a coordinating service for all of its member agencies.

The OCB System

It becomes obvious here that OCB is not an operating organization in the usual sense. OCB is a corporate body made up of people from the several executive departments and agencies. OCB is not so much an organization as it is a system. It is a system for achieving coordination among the participating departments.

To understand how the OCB system works, we must relate it to the National Security Council system. As a matter of fact, the OCB is integrally tied in with the NSC. The main difference is that NSC is a statutory body, while OCB was established by Executive Order. In practice, this difference is not recognized, but it prevents OCB from being called a part of NSC.

Let's start with an NSC policy being approved by the President and see how OCB fits into the picture. In the first place, the policy will not be a surprise to OCB, for the Deputy Executive Officer of OCB has sat in on its formulation at the NSC Planning Board. The approved NSC policy will normally be sent to all agencies and departments concerned, but a covering memorandum will often charge OCB with the responsibility for coordinating the action on the policy. The Executive Officer of OCB then assigns the coordinating responsibility to one of his staff.

It is usually obvious which agencies are involved and the OCB staff man will draft a memo to each agency asking their concurrence on "terms of reference" for setting up a Working Group. This goes out over the Executive Officer's signature to the Board Assistant for each agency represented on OCB, otherwise to the agency head. If each agency approves of the terms of reference, it responds by nominating a man cleared for top secret to serve on the working group. Since the terms of reference usually refer to a specific NSC paper, this process is rather routine. Only on special projects, such as for an ad hoc group to make a special study or report, is there any discussion about the terms of reference.

So an OCB Working Group is formed.

Normally, State chairs the working group and the OCB staff man assists him as the OCB Representative and a full member of the group. A meeting is called and the group henceforth meets periodically to perform its coordinating function.

Some of the group work is standard procedure:

1. The preparation of an Outline Plan of Operations to carry out the courses of action listed in the NSC policy. This is not an original plan in any sense. It is a summary consolidation in one document of all the agency plans. It flags gaps in the action, notes responsibilities, and specifies estimated completion dates. The working group attempts to time the operations so as to provide the greatest concerted impact. Nothing goes into this Outline Operational Plan that is not approved by each agency concerned. And each agency gets at least two other chances, at the Board Assistant's level and again at the Board level, to approve the plan before it becomes final.

2. Progress Reports are prepared each six months. These report on progress made toward objectives noted in the NSC policy papers. Progress reports are limited to four pages, and getting a half-dozen agencies to agree to which items will be included presents obvious difficulties. These reports are not expected to be historical reviews, but critical analyses of the work being done, together with emerging problems in the area.

3. Status Reports, usually no more than a sentence or two, are submitted weekly by the Executive Officer. This is easy. They are usually prepared by the OCB Representative after contacting his working group colleagues, and include timely items of significance which should be brought to the Board's attention. These may take the form of rather lengthy special reports if the conditions so warrant.

But the Working Group, although made up of people from several agencies, is an OCB body, and consequently should feel responsible for all on-going and future action in its area of responsibility. This often requires special working group studies and reports. Sometimes a situation breaks so fast that action must be taken without paper work. Personal visits and phone calls may clarify what action is necessary.

Normally, rather formal reports are forwarded from the working group to the Board Assistants, then to the Board itself. The Board sends Progress Reports back to NSC for notation, as well as other papers requiring Presidential notice or decision. Some reports, such as Status Reports and Outline Plans, are finally acted upon by OCB. A full circle has been completed. NSC to OCB and back to NSC.

First, you can see that this system puts OCB in a position to inspect the action being taken on an NSC policy and to report to NSC on this action.

Second, OCB attempts to bring all the loose ends together into consolidated papers which represent the total United States' effort—not simply the effort of a single department or agency. This is the first step in achieving integrated, focussed operations. Before determining where we are going, we must find out where we have been and where we are. The OCB system attempts to do that.

OCB rarely initiates any action independent of a member agency. A member of the Board may propose an operation which his agency supports. Other members will discuss it, and it may be sent to an ad hoc working group for study and staffing among all agencies concerned before OCB acts on it.

Or a working group member may propose an action; but this proposal will always get full staffing in all agencies before anything comes of it.

One thing that must be kept in mind at all times when considering OCB actions is that each member agency has previously approved this action. OCB is not, therefore, an operating agency so much as it is a clearing house for agency operations. It is a clearing house where all operations can be integrated and timed to secure maximum effect. OCB provides a standardized system for coordinating national operations.

Country Working Groups

Let's look at an example of OCB work. An NSC policy is approved with respect to the mythical country of "Newgov." This includes the base development agreement, plus a general discussion of the situation, our national objectives in this case, and courses of action to achieve those objectives.

This Newgov policy is assigned to an OCB staff man and he coordinates the forming of a working group composed of representatives of the departments concerned. In this case the working group would consist of representatives from State, Defense, ICA, CIA, USIA, and Treasury, plus the OCB Representative, of course. State chairs the group.

The working group's first few weekly meetings are spent in getting acquainted and being briefed by department representatives on developments in Newgov. Experts are called in for this briefing. The Ambassador to Newgov had several sessions with working group members as did the people on Newgov desks in State and ICA.

Then the group gets to work on an outline plan. Agency representatives are asked to submit the operational plans of their agencies with respect to the policy on Newgov.

Some member of the group, usually the OCB staff man, is nominated to consolidate these many plans. This first draft is then dittoed and sent to each working group member who trots around his agency with it, gathering comments. The next meeting of the working group will produce a second draft and the process is repeated.

This may go on and on, particularly if differences are great between agency positions. Newgov, however, was relatively easy. It took only about a dozen drafts to achieve a paper that was acceptable to each agency.

Next, the plan was discussed at the Board Assistant's meeting and approved with minor revisions for submission to the OCB. (Sometimes the revisions aren't so minor, however.)

A week later the paper was considered at OCB and accepted. It then became the operational plan with respect to Newgov. Each member of the OCB made certain that adequate directives existed in his department to cover the plan, and the plan itself was sent to the Ambassador.

The concept of a plan of this sort is rather new. What good it will do remains to be seen, but the hoped for returns would result from the advantages gained by having a comprehensive program, adequately integrated, in one document. They would include:

1. Assignment of specific operational responsibilities among departments and agencies.
2. Commitments on specific completion dates. These target dates should encourage articulated timing of all U.S. operations.
3. A check list for the OCB working group to follow up on operations in its area of responsibility. Of course, such a plan gets out-of-control but so does any other plan, agreement, or policy paper. In any event, the plan is followed up regularly by weekly status reports and semi-annual progress reports.

The entire process for producing a plan on Newgov consumed about six months and required something like twenty working group meetings. Later plans have been developed in somewhat less time, and it is hoped that the process can be accelerated still more.

It is obvious that OCB has no independent executive authority separate and distinct from the composite authority of its member agencies. OCB has no authority for decision. A majority vote means nothing—in fact, there is no voting. Unanimity is the general rule, or else the project is returned to the working group for more study and discussion. Any department or agency can halt a Board action—or at least delay it or water it down.

Executive Order 10483 says that OCB will "advise with" departments and agencies to achieve coordination. "Advising with" is an activity that permits any agency to go its own way. However, the force of OCB opinion is potent. Seldom does a member strongly oppose what seems to be a group consensus.

Cultural Exchange

But let's look at one more example—a most successful one so that this article may close on a happy note.

Last year the U.S. awoke to the fact that the USSR was giving increased attention to and participating more actively in trade fairs and cultural exhibits. We had been paying slight attention to this form of propaganda and were losing ground. Consequently, the President asked Congress for an emergency fund of $5 million with which to enter the cultural arena. This was to be seed money to underwrite losses by private activities and encourage private exchange of this sort.

Two OCB working groups have been set up to coordinate this program. One group, chaired by State, handles the cultural side. Another, chaired by Commerce, takes care of the trade fair activities.

Under the executive direction of Mr. Streibert, head of USIA, this program has had phenomenal success. Real cooperation has been noted in the working groups, and every agency has lent a helping hand.

We won first prize for the U.S. exhibits which included Cinerama at the Bangkok Trade Fair. The USSR refused to compete. She was there in force the previous year, but apparently the competition was too tough this year. Plans have been carried out for participating in many other trade fairs this year.

Another example is worth noting. Among many high-class theatrical groups going abroad under sponsorship of the Cultural Exchange Program, the "Porgy and Bess" company toured Europe, the Near East, and South America with resounding success. Praise has been heaped upon the cast wherever it has played, including its two stops in Yugoslavia. The colored people of the "Porgy and Bess" company are happy, healthy and prosperous. They are well educated, some of the cast even have Ph.D.'s. The "Porgy and Bess" people were splendid ambassadors, willing to talk with anyone, and always available for the receptions held in their honor. They organized football games with the of the country to which he is assigned. In this connection it may be recalled that the successful passing of an examination in at least one foreign language continues to be a prerequisite for every FSO-6 for promotion out of this class.

Once at his post, the FSO is encouraged to continue the study of the language of the country to which he is assigned. Or, if his Chief of Mission approves, he may study a locally useful world language instead.

Also there is a steadily-increasing number of foreign service posts that offer FSI sponsored language classes at Government expense. It is estimated that at present some 2100 men and women are studying thirty foreign languages at 98 posts abroad. Many students are older officers who have come in under the lateral entry plan. A number are clerical workers and reserve officers, for this is one of the several ways by which the new training program helps to prepare people in those categories for later appointment as Foreign Service officers. Other language students are wives or in some instances adult dependents.

At one of the language classes at the Institute this summer one Foreign Service wife showed amazing aptitude for the difficult Japanese language in the same language class with her husband. This story is not without parallel elsewhere. Both here and abroad the wives of FSO's are encouraged to learn the language of the country to which they are being sent. This instruction is available at Government expense in recognition of the fact that their ability to converse more freely with the people they meet is an asset to the service.

Specialists Made to Order

Another FSI program started several years ago, but given fresh impetus today, lies in the field of specialized training. As we are all aware, present-day foreign service work calls for experts along a growing number of highly specialized lines. Nine out of ten times people are not readily available. The Foreign Service, like many of the more successful US business firms, now has a program to make them to order. This takes time and money, but, the results are considered worth the cost.

The idea is to "spot" a man (or a woman) who shows unusual promise or qualifications for a certain line of work—international finance, for example. Or the officer may demonstrate an unusual aptitude for management or for certain types of highly-specialized administrative work. Perhaps, because of previous background and interest, he shows signs of becoming an expert in some generally little understood but important area. Once the candidate is selected for specialized training, he is expected to spend at least one academic year taking full-time graduate work in his specialty. In some cases the course may continue for 2 or even 2½ years. The officer pursues his prescribed program at one of the cooperating colleges or universities. During this time the officer is on salary, and there are special allowances to cover his tuition and other necessary expenses. During this academic year over eighty officers will be enrolled in this special training program. Forty-five are on campuses in eight states and in the District of Columbia, while approximately 30 will be studying at our FSI language schools in Lebanon, Formosa, and Japan.

For those undertaking area studies, acquiring a thorough street urchins at train stops and were usually followed by admiring crowds.

And so one fang of the Communist propaganda line has been pretty well pulled—as far as Europe is concerned, at least. Audiences who have seen or heard of "Porgy and Bess" will recognize the Communist racial discrimination lies about the U.S. for what they are.

This result is being achieved without direct propaganda on our part. The NBC Symphony which toured Asia with wide acclaim had nothing to sell except good American music. There are no blatant denials of the Communist in these kinds of efforts. Such illustrations of our way of life are destroying a false stereotype of America—a stereotype fostered by the Communists. Moreover, this sort of cultural activity corrects the myth that America is uncultured and materialistic, a myth which has long been a stumbling block in relationships with our allies.

Conclusion

We have looked at but two illustrations of OCB projects. There are about 35 such projects. A number of one-time projects are regularly considered and disposed of by the Board. Many projects, of course, are far more significant than the ones I have described. For example, a comprehensive survey of U.S. overseas broadcasting was conducted by the OCB, as was a similar survey of educational exchange. Moreover, every major national security problem and operation is of OCB concern, although OCB may not, in every case, be the organization carrying the ball.

Richard III in 1485. In the following century, both England and Scotland had consuls called "conservators," who had "jurisdiction to do justice between merchant and merchant beyond the seas."

France obtained a special position in the Levant because of the alliance between Frances I and Suleiman the Magnificent. By 1604 the first capitulations were signed under which French consuls were given precedence over all other consuls, and were endowed with certain diplomatic immunities such as freedom from arrest and from domiciliary visits. Because of the influence of the French, the British were unable to establish consuls in the Ottoman Empire until 1675.

The quasi-diplomatic privileges granted by the capitulations in former days have led to considerable misunderstanding in modern times of the exact rights of consular officers. Intrinsically, unless provided for by special consular conventions, consuls simply do not enjoy the special status of diplomats.

The first formal system of consular service since the Middle Ages was established by the French with the ordinance of 1661. However, by 1760, France had consuls only in the Levant, Barbary, Italy, Spain and Portugal. For the nationalistic reasons noted above, France discouraged the establishment of consuls in its own territory, fearing an infringement on its sovereignty. It was only in the nineteenth century that nations developed consular services of a career status. In England, the consular service was organized in 1825, and in France the series of laws and ordinances which established the modern system began in 1833. The Germans organized the most complete and elaborate consular service probably of all the nations after the establishment of the Empire, incorporating an act of the parliament of the North German Confederation of November 8, 1867. The rapid development of consular organizations in the nineteenth century was made possible, partly by dropping from most consular offices the old judicial and administrative powers enjoyed by their medieval ancestors, and partly because of the tremendous growth of trade and commerce. Our own service dates from Jefferson's installation as Secretary of State.

to OCB but for different purposes. The Bureau of the Budget, for example, advises the President on all Executive Department organizational and budgetary matters. The Office of Defense Mobilization, too, has a coordinating function for domestic preparedness measures. Many special committees are formed at high levels to oversee particular problem areas or to solve a one-time problem. The Dodge Council on Foreign Economic Policy is one example. It is concerned with over-all economic policy which obviously has a strong national security component. Such coordinating mechanisms may supersede OCB or be handled outside the OCB system. At other times they are integrated with the OCB.

Although there is considerable overlapping and duplication, jobs do get done. And the OCB system is maturing. It is filling what was a serious gap in the NSC structure—the follow-up and coordinating requirements of policy operations. With more general understanding of its procedures and purposes, it should provide the focussed U. S. operations which President Eisenhower referred to in San Francisco.
